SWEDENBURG.

The following Anecdote respecting the celebrated Swedenburg is extracted from Thiebault's Original Anecdotes of Frederick the Great, just published in Philadelphia.

I KNOW not on what occasion it was that, conversing one day with the queen (of Sweden) on the subject of the celebrated visionary Swedenburg, we expressed a desire, particularly M. Merian and myself, to know what opinion was entertained of him in Sweden. I on my part related what had been told me respecting him by chamberlain d'Hamon, who was still alive, and who had been ambassador from Prussia both to Holland and France. It was, that his brother-in-law, ambassador from Holland to Stockholm, having died suddenly, a shopkeeper demanded of his widow the payment of a bill for some articles of drapery, which she remembered had been paid in her husband's life time: that the widow not being able to find the shopkeeper's receipt, had been advised to consult with Swedenburg, who she was told could converse with the dead whenever he pleased; that she accordingly adopted this advice, though she did so less from credulity than curiosity; and that at the end of a few days Swedenburg informed her that her deceased husband had taken the shopkeeper's receipt for the money on such a day, and at such an hour, as he was reading such an article in Bayle in his cabinet; that his attention being called immediately afterwards towards some other concern, he had put the receipt into the book to mark the place at which he left off, where it was found at the place described. The queen replied, that though she was but little disposed to believe in such seeming miracles, she had nevertheless been willing to put the power of M. Swedenburg, with whom she was acquainted, to the proof: that she was previously acquainted with the anecdote I had related, and it was one of those that had most excited her astonishment, though she had never taken the pains to ascertain the truth of it:—that M. Swedenburg having come one evening to her court, she had taken him aside, and begged him to inform himself of her deceased brother the prince royal of Prussia, what he said to her at the moment of her taking leave of him for the court of Stockholm. She added, that what he had said was of a nature to render it impossible that the prince could have repeated it to any one, nor had it ever escaped her own lips: that some days after Swedenburg returned, when she was seated at cards, and requested she would grant him a private audience: to which she replied, he might communicate what he had to say before the company; but that Swedenburg assured her he could not declare his errand in the presence of witnesses; that in consequence of this intimation the queen became agitated, gave her cards to another lady, and requested M. de Schwerin who was also present when she related the story to us, to accompany her: that they accordingly went together into another apartment where she posted M. de Schwerin at the door, and advanced towards the further extremity of it with Swedenburg who said to her, "You took madam, your last leave of the prince of Prussia, your late and august brother, at Charlottenburg, on such a day, and at such an hour in the afternoon. As you were afterwards passing through the long galley, in the castle of Charlottenburg, you met him again. He then took you by the hand, and led you to such a window, where you could not be overheard, and then said to you these words ....." The queen did not repeat the words, but protested to us they were the very same her brother had pronounced, and that she retained the most perfect recollection of them. She added, that she had nearly fainted with the shock she experienced, and called on M. de Schwerin to answer for the truth of what she had said, who in his laconic style contented himself with saying, "All you have said, madam, is perfectly true, at least as far as I am concerned." I ought to add, that though the queen laid great stress on the truth of her recital, she professed herself at the same time incredulous to Swedenburg's supposed conferences with the dead. "A thousand events," said she, "appear inexplicable and supernatural to us, who know only the immediate consequences of them: and men of quick parts who are never so well pleased as when they exhibit something wonderful, take advantage of this to gain an extraordinary reputation. M. Swedenburg was a man of learning, and of some talent in his way, but I cannot imagine by what means he obtained the knowledge of what could have been repeated to no one. However I have no faith of his having had a conference with my brother."

Latest from England.

NEW-YORK, Nov. 19.

The ship New Guide, Capt. Hall, came up yesterday from Gravesend Bay; and we had the pleasure of receiving our regular London papers to the evening of the 29th of September, a Liverpool paper of the 25th, and a London General Prices Current of the 29th.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—A letter from Plymouth, of the 14th inst. contains the following passage, which, if the fact be correctly stated, must be deemed important:—

"Plymouth, Sept. 14.—Lord St. Vincent has taken out all the Portuguese ships of war at Lisbon, and is rigging them with all possible dispatch, and no doubt will bring them away with him and all the Royal Family.

Sept. 22.—Arrangements are understood to be in a state of forwardness for the amicable adjustment of the differences with Prussia.—The Prussian ports are expected to be opened immediately to our trade.

Rear Admiral Stirling has been sent out to supercede Sir Home Popham. He sailed for Portsmouth some time ago. It is reported too, but we trust the report is untrue, that sir Home is coming home under arrest.

The Rosario and some other of our cruizers, have lately been employed in examining all the enemy's ports from Ushant to Cape Ortegal, in consequence of information received by government, that the enemy were busily employed in naval arrangements along the coast. By this survey it has been ascertained, that the naval establishment at Brest, L'Orient, Rochefort, &c. are precisely as they have been for some time past.

Sept. 23.—The variety of these, the mode of equipment of some of them, and the term for which they are variously victualled, puts conjecture at defiance. A great many flat bottomed boats have been sent from the Downs, and most of the transports have now one or two of them. The latest report is, that the reinforcement going out to Buenos Ayres is to consist of the 17th light dragoons, "the brave death or glory regiment," Gen. De Lancey's regiment; of the first battallion of the 5th, Gen. England's regiment, and of the 88th, or Connaugh's Rangers, Gen. Ried's regiment. The Ardent, of 64 guns, and the Charwell sloop, to convey them immediately.

We have just learned, that an expedition will shortly be sent out to the West Indies.

With sincere pleasure we learn, that rewards and honors are to be conferred on Sir Home Popham and major gen. Berrisford.

Capt. Donnolley has been promoted from the Narcissus to the Ardent line of battle ship.

On Sunday the transports with the following regiments sailed from Portsmouth:

40th regiment, 1st battalion; 40th ditto, 2d battalion; 14th ditto, 2d battalion; 5th German Legion, detachment; 6th German Legion, detachment; 7th ditto, whole regiment; 8th ditto, whole regiment.

Part of the 9th dragoons marched through Dover yesterday from Deal, on their way to Portsmouth, where they are to be embarked for foreign service.

Major Generals Sir Arthur Wellesly and Sir George Prevost will, it is said, get the commands of seperate expeditions.

The Veteran, Jerome Bonaparte's ship, is hauled into the inner harbour, at Concarneau, and moored head and stern to the shore, there not being room for her to swing; her guns are taken out to make batteries to protect her even there, so apprehensive are they of a visit from our ships.

September 25.—We understand that the following are the arrangements which are agreed upon in consequence of the lamented death of Mr. Fox:

Earl Fitzwilliam, from indisposition, wishes to retire from the situation (which requires regular attendance) of Lord president, but to retain his seat in the Cabinet.

Lord Sidmouth, to be President.

Lord Holland, to be Privy Seal.

Lord Howick, to be Secretary of State for the Foreign department.

Mr. Thomas Grenville, to be first Lord of the Admiralty.

Mr. Tierny, to be President of the Board of Controul.

Mr. Bragge Bathurst, to be master of the mint, vice Lord Charles Spencer.

Mr. Whitebread will also be speedily called into office, but the arrangement for that purpose is not yet matured.

We can now add, with the utmost confidence, that Lord Grenville proceeded on Monday morning to Windsor, to take the King's pleasure on the above nominations, all of which it is presumed will be confirmed at the Privy Council held this day.

One of the expeditions now fitting out, is for the Spanish main. We understand the 36th, the 87th, and 89th regiments are going on this service.

"Plymouth, Sept. 23.—This morning early, the wind having sprung up at E. N. E. the signal was made for the transports to weigh immediately and put to sea. Every preparation for sailing was made in consequence; but it soon veered back to westward, and prevented their proceeding.

"The Glatton, of 50 guns, is fitting with all dispatch for a foreign station; it is said she is to take the three East-Indiamen that are here, under convoy as far as Bengal Bay, and then to proceed to Botany Bay.

"The Royal George, of 110 guns, has still the signal for flying sailing, and all the ships are at single anchor ready for a start. Gen. Sir Hugh Dalrymple goes out in the Royal George; no stores were put on board yesterday."

The foreign intelligence received by the French papers yesterday, tho' it is well enough understood that all that comes through that channel, wherever it may be dated, is of a Parisian manufacture, had the effect to lower the funds a little. Nor are we surprised at it, for it is plain, even from the care taken to give such intelligence, a flavour suited to the French palate, that the French Cabinet is under considerable apprehensions that a war between France and Prussia, in which they will be assisted by Russia, and, perhaps by other powers, is at no very great distance.

Lord Hawkesbury sailed on board the Thames frigate a few days ago, in order to take a piece at Bologne. His Lordship was yesterday landed at Deal, and was saluted with 15 guns from the frigate at leaving her.

Arrest of Captain Whitby.

Capt. Whitby of the Leander, has returned from the American station, under arrest, in that ship; and a court martial is immediately ordered upon him, for firing upon the American vessel, which made so much noise. By these means, the truth of those proceedings, which gave so much uneasines to both countries, will be indubitably determined.

DREADFUL CATASTROPHE.

Accounts have been received of a most terrible accident having happened at Malta. On the 18th of July (some of the letters say on the 15th) a magazine containing nearly 400 barrels of gun-powder and a number of shells, grenades and other combustibles, blew up, and caused incredible mischief. Upwards of 1400 people are reported to have been killed or dreadfully mangled, a number of houses were dertroyed, and some damage done to the ships in the harbour. The following is a copy of one of letters that have been received:

"Malta, July 18—Private letter.

"I now come to relate to you an event of the most melancholy description, and almost unparalelled in regard to the dreadful and miserable consequences. It happened this morning. A magazine took fire, and blew up with an explosion scarcely ever known to be equalled; by it 370 barrels of gunpowder, and above 1600 shells and grenades were blown up. Such an immense quantity as forty thousand lbs. of gunpowder must occasion the most dreadful havoc and destruction. The houses adjacent in every direction were blown immediately into ruins—and how shocking it was to the inhabitauts you may easily conceive, as there was no chance of escaping, the buildings are all of stone, of an immense thickness. It is calculated that one thousand persons have either perished or are dreadfully maimed. The principal sufferers are the Maltese, who chiefly lived near the place.—One man has lost his wife and six children, others nearly the same; whole families are buried together. Those who escaped momentary death, perhaps, are shockingly disfigured and maimed, crawling about in a miserable condition. Fourteen artillery-men, who were of course blown to attoms. The band of a regiment (the 39th) were just playing "God save the King" near the place—two men were killed on the spot—the whole remainder were much wounded. The guards on duty were killed. The magazine is situated on the side of the water opposite the city of Valetta; it is called Barmola. Stones were thrown over us, some to the distance of two miles. It was situated close to the water side, and the bed of the sea was so shook by it, that it rose up and overflowed the banks. Two vessels (small ones) were sunk. Immense stones were thrown up, which fell into the water; others into the rigging; one I saw which fell into a vessel just arrived, weighed an hundred weight. The guard-ship the Madrass man of war, is moored some distance from the disastrous place; but a stone fell on the quarter-deck and broke the thigh of the gunner, who had lately arrived. A Mr. Woodhouse here, who, with his brother, has a great wine-making concern in Sicily, has lost two hundred and fifty pipes of it worth nearly 7000*l.*—They were at some little distance from the place; but the shock was so great that the casks burst.

"In short, it is a scene of misery which no language can describe. The churches are filled with the dead. A friend of mine, just come from the ruins, says, that he was walking over them, when he lighted on the head of a woman. Her whole body was crushed flat; and although it is only a few hours since the general calamity took place, her body, owing to the intense heat, was entirely putrified.—Nothing further has yet been ascertained.

"It is supposed, however, that the men were employed in cutting away the fuses from the shells, or doing something like that, when by some means a spark arose. The merchants here have begun a subscription of twenty pounds each for the relief of the poor sufferers. A whole town, I may say, is destroyed.

"The accident happened this morning about a quarter past six o'clock. They say there are now buried in the ruins one thousand barrels of gunpowder that are in danger: but I trust in God it is untrue, for were that to blow up it would bring all Malta into ruins. May the Almighty avert such another disaster!"

BUENOS AYRES,

IS situated on the celebrated Rio de la Plata, and is the capital of a province of America. The province embraces all that country lying between Tucuman on the east, Paraguay on the north, and Terra Magellanica on the south. The country is watered by the great river La Plata; first discovered in 1515, by Juan Diaz de Solis.—It was partly subdued by Sebastian Caboto, who gave the name of La Plata to the river, from the abundance of the precious metals he there obtained from the inhabitants, supposing them to be the produce if that country, though in fact they were brought from Peru. This country is perhaps the finest in the world, and abounds so much in horned cattle and horses, that they are killed merely for their tallow and hides. Great varieties of fish are here in the same abundance. The fruits produced by every quarter of the globe grow here in the utmost perfection: and of the purposes of commerce it is hardly possible to conceive any country better adapted.

The city Buenos Aryes, was founded in the ear 1535, and stands on a point called Cape Blanco on the south side of the Plata, about 50 miles from its mouth. The situation is in a plain, rising by a gentle ascent from the river: and truly paradisacal whether we regard the temperature of the climate, the fertility of the soil, or that beautiful verdure which overspreads the whole face of the country, of which the inhabitants have a prospect as far the eye can reach. The city is very considerable in extent, containing, three thousand houses inhabited by Spaniards and others of different complexions. The streets are straight, broad and pretty equal in heights and dimensions of the buildings; one very handsome square adorns it, the front castle, which the governor holds his court, presides over a garrison of 3000 soldiers Most of the buildings are of chalk or brick, except the cathedral, a magnificent structure, composed chiefly of stone.

Motion in the Federal Court of the Kentucky District, against AARON BURR, ESQ. late Vice President of the U. S. for crimes of high misdemeanor.

On Wednesday about noon, on the 5th ult. J. H. Daviess, Esq. Attorney of the U. S. for the above district, rose, and addressing the court, said that he had a motion to make of the utmost magnitude, and extraordinary nature, and which regarded the welfare of the union at large. That the unhappy state of his health alone, had prevented him from making it on the first day of the term—that he should ground the motion on an affidavit which he would present to the court He then made oath to the following affidavit:—

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

Kentucky District, set.

J. H. DAVIESS, attorney for the said U. S. in and for the said district, upon his corporal oath, doth depose and say that the deponent is informed, and doth verily believe that a certain Aaron Burr, Esq. late Vice President of the said U S. for several months past, hath been, and is now engaged in preparing and setting on foot, and providing and preparing the means for a military expedition and enterprize within this district for the purpose of descending the Ohio and Mississippi therewith, and making war upon the subjects of the king of Spain, who are in a state of peace with the people of these United States.—To wit: on the provinces of Mexico, on the westwardly side of Louisiana, which appertain and belong to the king of Spain an European prince, with whom these United States are at peace.

And said deponent further saith, that he is informed and fully believes that the above charge, can be and will be fully substantiated by evidence, provided this honorable court will grant compulsory process to bring in witness to testify thereto.

And the deponent further saith that he is informed, and verily believes, that the agents and emissaries of the said Burr, have purchased up, and are continuing to purchase large stores of provisions, as if for an army; which the said Burr, seems to conceal in great mystery from the people at large, his purposes and projects; while the minds of the good people of this district, seem agitated with the current rumour that a military expedition against some neighbouring power, is preparing by said Burr.

Wherefore, said attorney, on behalf of said U. S. pray that due process issue to compel the personal appearance of the said Aaron Burr, in this court; and also of such witnesses as may be necessary on behalf of the said United States: and that this honorable court, will duly recognise the said Aaron Burr, to answer such charges as may be prefered against him in the premises; and in the mean time, that he desist and refrain from all further preparation and proceeding in the said armament within the United States, or the territories or dependencies thereof.

J. H. DAVIESS, A. U. S.

Having read this affidavit, the attorney proceeded in the following words:—

The present subject has much engaged my mind. The case made out is only as to the expedition against Mexico; but I have information on which I can rely, that all the western territories are the next object of the scheme—and finally, all the region of the Ohio is calculated as falling into the vortex of the new proposed revolution. What the practicability of this scheme is, I will not say; but certainly any progress in it, might cost our country much blood and treasure to undo; and, at least great public agitation must be expected.

I am determined to use every effort in my power, as an officer and a man to defeat it.

Having made the affidavit myself, I shall make no comments on its sufficiency.

In cases of felony the affidavit must be positive, as to a felony actually committed; but in a misdemeanor of this nature, where the sole object of the law is prevention, such an oath cannot be required: the thing must rest on belief as to the main point of guilt.

I could easily prove positively the purchase of supplies of various kinds, but this is no offence. Mr. Burr may purchase supplies—he may import arms—he may engage men, which I am told is actually begun; yet all these things being proved, make no offence; neither can proof of the declarations of his known confidents, of which abundance might be had, attach guilt to him—it is the design, the intent with which he make these preparations, that constitute his misdemeanor.

There must be a great exertion of supposition to imagine a cause which positive proof of the illegal design can be had—it rests in information and belief. The court ought therefore to issue a warrant or a capias for the accused, and examine witnesses; when the court will be able to decide whether Mr. Burr should be bound to good behavior on the premises, or recognized to appear here and answer an indictment.

His honour Judge Innes declined on account of the importance of the question, to give an opinion without taking time for consideration. This opinion he did not deliver until this morning about eleven, which opinion went to overrule the motion of the attorney for the United States, on the grounds,

1st. That the court was not invested with the power.

2d. If the court were, that the evidence was not sufficient.

The attorney then moved for a warrant to summon a grand jury, before whom he was to prefer an indictment against Col. Burr. This the court immediately granted; and a warrant was given to Col. Crocket, the marshal of the district for that purpose. The Judge ordered his opinion to be entered on the record.

From the PALLADIUM, (Ken.) Nov. 13, 1806.

On Wednesday the 5th inst. when it was currently reported and generally believed in this place, that Colonel Burr had left Lexington, Joseph H. Daviess attorney for the United States for this district appeared in court, and after some preliminary observations calculated to excite great expectation, read the affidavit which appears in this paper, and moved the court for a capias against Colonel Burr, and for compulsory process to compel the attendance of witnesses.

The judge conceived the application of a novel nature, and the form very unusual, took time to consider. It happened that Colonel Burr had not left Lexington and on hearing of this proceeding he sent a messenger to Frankfort, to inform the court that he should on the day following present himself to meet any inquiry.—On Friday Colonel Burr arrived in Frankfort attended by several gentlemen from Lexington; on Saturday morning he presented himself in court, his appearance caused much sensation—to his enemies it was evident chagrin—to the impartial, that is to nine-tenths in the house, it gave the utmost satisfaction.

Before Colonel Burr, came into court the Judge delivered his opinion—Colonel Burr rose and in a brief impressive manner stated his surprise at a proceeding so extraordinary at a time when he was supposed to have left the state, with some other remark, which cannot be detailed, and offered to meet, and invited any investigation in any form, provided it were prompt.

Mr. Daveiss professed to be ready to proceed as soon as the witnesses could be had, and on consulting the marshal, said that the attendance of the witnesses could be procured on Tuesday evening; that he would engage to proceed on Wednesday morning, and that in case an indictment should be found, that he would also be ready to proceeed forthwith to the trial.—to this Col. Burr assented. A grand jury was empanneled from persons in court, immediately sworn and adjourned to attend on the next Wednesday morning, when they would receive a charge from the judge. On the same day subpoenas being granted the deputy marshals were sent to Louisville, Jeffersonville, Lexington, Danville and other places to summon witnesses, principally persons supposed to be the confidents of Colonel Burr.

These events having circulated rapidly throughout the country and generally mingled with error and exageration, excited great solicitude and expectation—On Wednesday morning (yesterday) this town was crouded with persons from all quarters, beyond any former example; all was eagerness and impatience—The witnesses who had been summoned attended without an exception, the court was opened, the grand jury was called and appeared. Just as the judge was expected to deliver his charge, Mr. Daviess rose and moved that the grand jury might be dismissed, declaring that he was not prepared to proceed with the enquiry, by reason of the absence of a witness whom he deemed material—The disappointment and chagrin of a crouded audience may be conceived, but the ridicule and laughter which followed was universal. The public sentiment which had all along been strongly in favour of Col. Burr, now burst forth without disguise. There is not time to comment on these transactions, but two or three facts may tend to disclose the motives of this prosecution, which is generally viewed as a persecution.

At the time it was commenced it was believed that Col. Burr had left the state.

Mr. Daviess swears that the information he had received, convinced his mind of the truth of the charge;—Why was not this information given to the grand jury?

The subpoenas returned then the names of twelve witnesses, all of whom attended, one more was desired by Mr. Daviess, this one was by him stated to be a gentleman of Jeffersonville, (opposite Louisville, on the Ohio) who had some days previous gone to Vincennes, to attend the legislature of the Indiana territory, of which he is a member—this legislature had commenced on the 5th inst. Mr. Daviess did not profess to have had any communication with this gentleman directly or indirectly—hence this testimony could have no influence with Mr. Daviess in giving his affidavit or in instituting the prosecution.

There is some reason to believe that the absence of this gentleman and the occasion of it, were known to Mr. D. when the grand jury were summoned on Saturday.

Col. Burr has throughout this business conducted himself with that calmness, moderation and firmness which have characterised him through life—He evinced an earnest desire for a full and speedy investigation: free from irritation or emotion, he excited the strongest sensation of respect and friendship in the breast of every impartial person present.

MIRANDA DEFEATED.

BOSTON, Nov. 17.— Capt. Foster, arrived here on Saturday in 25 days from Trinidad informs, that 3 days previous to his sailing, a Mr. Taylor, (who had embarked in the expedition with Miranda) reached that place with the unpleasant intelligence of their defeat in landing at the Caraccas. He stated that the troops which Miranda had collected at Trinidad, did not amount to more than 400 men; that with this additional force, he had proceeded on this expedition; but immediately on his landing was attacked, and totally defeated; that Miranda had lost in the engagement the greatest part of his troops; and with much difficulty secured his retreat with the wreck of his little army in one of the small vessels belonging to his squadron: that the Leander was also captured, and capt. Johnson, who commanded her, and most of his officers, were beheaded.—Gazette.

Latest from England.

Yesterday morning arrived at New-York, the ship Liberty, capt. Chew, from Liverpool.—By this conveyance, and thro' the attention of our Correspondents at New-York, we have received Liverpool papers to the 3d, and London papers to the 1st October; copious extracts from which appear in the Gazette of this evening

By these advices, it appears, that the misunderstanding between Prussia and France, had become so far exasperated as to induce the emperor to leave Paris, to head his armies, which are all converging to one point. There is nothing of an authentic shape to warrant the expectation that eitheir Russia or Austria would be involved in the conflict; although there are many circumstances of preparation and policy, which render such a coalition highly probable. Otherwise the world must shortly be called on to witness the humiliation of the court of Berlin. But for the higher interests of the other powers of Europe, such a catastrophe would not excite much commiseration, as it was owing either to her duplicity or pusillanimity, that the other powers of Europe, in the last war were overthrown and degraded by Bonaparte.

The reasons for Lord Lauderdale's remaining at Paris, subsequent to these stormy indications, are inscrutable. Nothing had transpired to lead to an idea when he might be expected home: or what progress he had made in the negociation.

Valuable Medicines.

HAMILTON'S ELIXIR, a sovereign remedy for colds, obstinate coughs, asthmas, soar throats, and approaching consumptions.

To parents who may have their children afflicted with the Hooping Cough, this discovery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorder to which children are liable. The Elixir is so perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small, that no difficulty arises in taking it.

From Luther Martin, Esq. Attorney General of the State of Maryland.

GENTLEMEN—I comply with your request in stating my opinion of Hamilton's Elixir. It has been used in my family for two or three years past, with uniform success, whenever colds, coughs, or similar complaints have rendered medicine necessary; I have myself found it an excellent and agreeable remedy for a very painful and troublesome affection of the breast, accompanied with soarness and with obstructed and difficult breathing.

On these accounts I do not hesitate to recommend Hamilton's Elixir, as a valuable medicine, and deserving public attention. LUTHER MARTIN.

The Sovereign Ointment for the ITCH.

Which is warranted an infallible remedy at one application, and may be used with perfect safety by pregnant women, or on infants a week old, not containing a particle of mercury, or any dangerous ingredient whatever, and is not attended by that tormenting smart which attends the application of other medicines.

The Genuine Persian Lotion.

For preventing and removing blemishes in the face and skin, such as freckles, pimples, pits after small pox, inflamatory redness, scurfe, tetters, ring worms, sunburns, prickley heat, &c. &c.

The Restorative Powder for the Teeth and Gums.

The excellent preparation comforts and strengthens the gums, preserves the enamel from decay, and cleanses and whitens the teeth, absorbing all that accrimonious slime and foulness, which suffered to accumulate never fails to injure and finally ruin them.

Hahn's Genuine Eye Water.

A sovereign remedy for all diseases of the eyes, whether the effect of natural weskness or of accident.

Tooth Ache Drops.

The only remedy yet discovered which gives immediate and lasting relief in the most severe instances.

The Anodyne Elixir.

For the cure of all kinds of Head Ache.

For the cure of Venerial Complaints.

The Patent Indian Vegetable Specific. Prepared by Dr. Leroux.

HAHN's Anti Billious Pills.

Excellently adopted to carry off superfluous bile, and to prevent its morbid secritions; to restore and amend the appetite, to procure a free perspiration, and thereby prevent colds, which are often attended with fatal consequences, a dose never fails to remove a cold, if taken on its first appearance. They are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at stomach, and severe head ache, and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

Infallible Ague & Fever Drops,

For the cure of the Ague, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers.

THOUSANDS can testify of their being cured by these drops, after the bark and every other medicine has proved ineffectual, and no one in a hundred has had occasion to take more than one, and numbers not half a bottle.

The Justices and Constables
ASSISTANT

By WM. GRAYDON, Esquire.

BEING a general collection of forms of practice, interpersed with various observations and directions; together with a number of adjudged cases, relative to the offices of justice and constable; with an appendix containing a variety of useful forms of conveyancing, this valuable book may be had at the Printing office of this Gazette. July 3, 1806.

Panton & Miltenberger,
(Lately from Philadelphia.)
Copper Smiths, Tin Plate Workers and Japanners.

HAVE commenced their Manufactory at the corner of Market and Front streets, Pittsburgh. They flatter themselves that from a number of years experience in the different branches of their business, they will be able to give satisfaction to all those who may please to favour them with their commands.

They not only warrant their work good, but also elegant of the kind; their Japanned Ware for strength and beauty, is superior to any manufactured in the United States, and as they intend to have always on hand an handsome assortment of COPPER, TIN and JAPANNED WARES, of every description, Merchants and others can have their orders executed on the shortest notice, and at a very reduced price; they therefore hope by their attention, punctuality and good workmanship, to merit the patronage of the public.

N. B. Old Waiters, Bread Trays &c. Japanned.

☞ Sign Painting on Japanned Tin, neatly executed.

 Panton & Miltenberger, inform the citizens of the Western Country, &c. that they have a large and extensive assortment of STILLS, of every size, manufactured by them—so that persons wishing to purchase may be accomodated on as good terms as at any other place, and may be suited to their mind.
